

Hi All,

As you are aware, the organization introduced the Work From Home (WFH)/Hybrid Work Policy to provide employees with the flexibility of working from home 2 days a week, with the objective of promoting a healthy work-life balance while ensuring uninterrupted business operations.

Over the last few months, we have closely reviewed the implementation of this policy. While many employees have used this flexibility responsibly, we have also observed repeated misuse of the WFH benefit, with employees exceeding the permitted monthly limit for various reasons. More importantly, we have noticed a decline in employee availability and responsiveness during WFH days, which has directly impacted collaboration, timely communication, and overall team coordination. In several instances, delays in responses, missed meetings, and reduced engagement during working hours have affected project timelines and delivery commitments, ultimately impacting overall productivity.

The WFH/Hybrid policy is expected to be exercised responsibly without affecting business commitments or team collaboration. However, based on our observations, the current flexibility has not been consistently utilized in line with the intent of the policy, particularly in terms of maintaining expected levels of productivity and availability during working hours.

As a result, the organization has decided to revisit the existing Hybrid Work Policy. The revised policy will be effective from August 2026.

- Eligible employees can work from home 2 days per week, up to a maximum of 8 days in a month.
- At the end of each month, an employee's total WFH days should not exceed 8 days.
- WFH days cannot be carried forward to the next week or month.
- Any WFH days beyond the monthly limit must be compensated by working from the office on one of the employee's regular hybrid WFH days within the same month.
- If compensation is not possible within the same month, the excess WFH days cannot be carried forward and will be adjusted against Casual Leave (CL), Privilege Leave (PL) or treated as Leave Without Pay (LOP) if no leave balance is available.
- Employees working from home are expected to remain fully available during working hours. They must be responsive on communication channels, attend meetings, client calls, discussions, and any business requirement whenever requested by their managers or teams.
- Work From Home must not impact an employee's productivity, responsiveness, collaboration, or project deliverables. Any decline in output, delays in communication, or lack of availability during working hours will be taken seriously. Managers will continue to closely monitor adherence to these expectations.

The organization will continue to monitor adherence to this policy closely. If instances of misuse continue or if the revised guidelines are not consistently followed, the current Hybrid Work From Home benefit may be reviewed and revised, including a reduction in the number of permitted WFH days, based on business requirements.

All other guidelines communicated in the earlier WFH/Hybrid Policy remain unchanged. We request all employees to review the revised guidelines carefully and ensure strict adherence going forward.

For any clarifications, please reach out to the HR Team.
